Sharing the News of Norwalk Catholic School

Welcome Back to School 2010-2011

Hello, I hope everyone is having a good beginning to the school year.

Allow me to introduce myself. My name is Matt Fair and I am the new Development Director for Norwalk Catholic School. I am a 1990 graduate of St. Paul High School. My wife, Becky, and I live in Norwalk and have two children, Jefferson and Layla. Jefferson is in the first grade at Norwalk Catholic School and Layla is 5 weeks old. We moved back to Norwalk in 2000 because we wanted to start our family in this community. Previously I taught social studies from grades 7-12 at St. Paul High School and Junior High. As I start this new position let me explain what the development office does.

office or FCEDO. The development office is working with FCEDO to enhance our school. We will handle the events, like the Spring Fling and the golf outing. We are also responsible for producing communications like this Mustardseed. As you can see the Mustardseed is going back to its roots as a streamlined newsletter. This newsletter will be published on a monthly basis to keep you informed of what the development office is working on. Please look at the bottom of the front page for information about our new quarterly magazine called "Flyer Pride". This magazine will be a combined effort between the development office and the alumni association. The most important things the development office is responsible for is the annual fund. Be looking for information about the fund soon. This fund drive is essential to the supporting what you see in the pictures of this newsletter. A lot of what we do involves communication. The most important communication involves you. I invite you to come see us in our new office. It is located in the main hall of the high school on the Main St. end of the school. We would love to talk to you about anything from development ideas to questions about our schools and as always we have chocolate to for all of our guests.

Looking forward to seeing you!

Your Servant in Christ,

Matt Fair '90
